The Legend of Robin Hood

In the past, there weren't any books. People told stories about famous men and women. They told the stories many times and the details changed over time. The stories became legends.

My favourite legend is Robin Hood. It's about a man who lived in Sherwood Forest around 600 years ago. People were sad because the scary Sheriff of Nottingham took all their gold. Robin Hood and his friends, the Merry Men, were very good at using bows and arrows. They lived in the woods. They took gold from those who had too much and gave it to people who had nothing.

Robin's best friend was called Little John, but he wasn't little; he was more than two metres tall! He was very loyal and often helped Robin. He was calm and careful.

Will Scarlet was also a good friend to Robin, but he wasn't calm like Little John. He got angry very easily. He was a good fighter and helped Robin steal gold from the rich.

Robin Hood wanted Maid Marian to be his wife, but Robin had no money, so her uncle didn't want her to marry him. However, Marian visited him in the forest. She wore men's clothes so nobody knew who she was. In the end, she became his wife.
